NO HIGH WATER.

Come Down Gradually.

The coolness of yesterday and last night sent the waters of the Weber and Ogden down a foot or two. Although they had not yet reached the danger line the rapidity with which they were rising gave some cause for alarm, because of the quantity of snow in the mountains. Those well acquainted with the conditions think there is no danger of the rivers doing serious damage, as the cold snaps will prevent the waters from coming down with a rush.

Farmers of Weber and Davis counties are rejoicing over the prospect of an ample supply of water for irrigation. The completion of the new reservior in East Canyon by the Weber & Davis County Canal company would insure plenty of water for Roy, Kanesville, Hooper and adjoining localities even in a dry season.
